

behavior & inequality

briq is a research institute and knowledge hub with strong connections to the University of Bonn and leading international scholars. It was founded in 2016 and is headed by Professor Armin Falk. The research focuses on understanding individual decision making and behavior, as well as the causes and consequences of inequality.

For further information on the institute, please refer to www.briq-institute.org.

We invite applications for several positions as

Student Helper

in Economics Research (9 to 19 hours / week).

Job profile

- General research assistance,
- programming of experiments and surveys,
- support of data analysis and processing,
- literature queries,
- creating and editing presentations,
- editing research papers,
- assistance with (virtual) events,
- administrative support.

Requirements

- Student (m/w/x) of Economics or related fields,
- enrolled in a bachelor's or master's program at a German university with no master's degree completed so far,
- interest in empirical economics research and econometrics,
- experience with LaTeX, Stata, R, z-Tree, or Python,
- very good command of English,
- availability for at least one year,
- flexibility, team spirit, and a self-motivated attitude to work,
- ability to work remotely.

We offer

- Insights into behavioral economics research and the administration of our institute,
- work in an international environment,
- attractive salary and flexible working hours.

Please submit your electronic application including a CV, a motivation letter, and your transcript of records through our online application system: <https://jobs.briq-institute.org>

Application deadline: June 06. Job interviews: June 10 and 13

briq – Institute on Behavior & Inequality

Dr. Markus Antony
Schaumburg-Lippe-Str. 5–9
53113 Bonn

markus.antony@briq-institute.org
0228 3894-702